University of Scouting

Why should scouts take University of Scouting? It offers concentrated, supplemental training opportunities designed to enhance skills, expand knowledge, and foster networking with other leaders.

Key Reasons to Attend University of Scouting

- Diverse and Comprehensive Training
The UoS is often the only time during the year when the widest variety of training opportunities for all program areas (Cub Scouts, Scouts BSA, Venturing, Sea Scouting, Commissioner Science, etc.) are offered in one place. You can find courses on topics like:
 - Unit administration and program planning.
 - Outdoor skills and high adventure.
 - Leadership development and youth engagement.
 - Specific supplemental courses, IOLS, or general subjects
 - Youth training courses for Scouts, like Den Chef Training, Merit Badge Classes, and Trail to First Class
- Networking and Fellowship Attending UoS allows Scouters to connect with and learn from experienced volunteers and professionals from across the council. This fellowship is a valuable opportunity to:
 - Exchange contact information and seek advice.
 - Share best practices and new ideas with other unit leaders.
 - Build morale and a sense of community.

Ultimately, by attending the University of Scouting, Scouters gain the necessary tools and knowledge to better serve their Scouts and run a high-quality program.
